To Our New Alumni:

Welcome, a warm welcome, to the ranks of the alumni of The Ohio State University. Back in 1878 there were six alumni—new and untested. This small group has grown in 1970 to an alumni body of tens of thousands who have received degrees here, and our loyal Ohio State University Association has built the second largest organized constituency that exists among universities today.

The modern alumnus is a dedicated servant of education. The fruits of a good education—the critical mind, the discerning spirit, the higher values, the sense of commitment, and the privilege of service—are exemplified in tens of thousands of our products.

In a very real sense, the alumni are members of the family and full-fledged partners in the enterprise—in Ohio, in the nation, and throughout the world.

What can you do for the University? There seems to be general agreement on four major services which alumni can be counted on to render: 1) the ambassadorial service of representing Ohio State well wherever they go; 2) the service of strengthening Ohio State’s resources through participation in the Development Fund; 3) the recruiting service of well-qualified students to Ohio State; and 4) the advisory service of strengthening Ohio State’s role in society.

A great university is composed of many diverse people and many diverse ideas; so is society as a whole—and our alumni are the people best able to provide the vital link between our campus and its environment. With your assistance, we cannot fail to meet this challenge.

The University extends to you a year’s free membership in the Association and with it will come automatically a subscription to THE MONTHLY, a magazine devoted to the task of helping you “keep in touch” with our exciting pursuit of human excellence.

Congratulations to you—and to your families and friends. You are joining a great family, for Ohio State is permanent among so many impermanencies. Your University is something to come back to—growing ever more rich and mellow in spirit.

We invite you to join with all of your fellow alumni in celebrating the Centennial of The Ohio State University throughout 1970!

Sincerely,

C. GORDON JELLIFFE      RICHARD M. MALL

COLUMBUS, O., June 26, 1970 The 39th Linguistic Institute of the Linguistic Society of America is under way on the Ohio State University campus.

A highlight of the institute was the conferring Wednesday (6/24) of the honorary doctor of humane letters degree (L.H.D.) on Dr. Yuen Ren Chao, emeritus Agassiz professor of oriental languages and linguistics at the University of California, Berkeley.

Dr. Chao is a native of Tientsin, China, and received his A.B. degree from Cornell University in 1914 and his Ph.D. from Harvard University in 1918.

Recognized as a world authority on Chinese linguistics, he has taught at Cornell, Harvard University, National Tsing Hua University, China, and at Yale University. He has been at Berkeley since 1947.

He was a delegate to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization Conferences in 1945, 1946 and 1947 and was seminar director in 1948.
Robert H. Finch was appointed Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by President Richard M. Nixon. He is the youngest of the eight HEW Secretaries ever to serve as head of the Department.

At the time of his appointment, Robert Finch was Lieutenant Governor of California, having been elected in 1966 with the largest vote of any statewide candidate in the nation.

He credits his success in that campaign in large part to its predominant theme: that the vast resources of the non-governmental sectors must play a more dynamic role in solving our nation's problems.

Carrying out this theme during his tenure as Lieutenant Governor, he won widespread recognition as Chairman of the California Job Training and Placement Council for developing and coordinating a massive job training program in conjunction with private industry in the State.

In addition, he was chairman of the Interagency Council for Ocean Resources, the Bicentennial Celebration Commission, the Commission of the Californias and the Electronic Data Processing Policy Committee, as well as a member of seven additional California boards and commissions.

In 1967, he was honored by election as Regional Vice Chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Conference of Lieutenant Governors.

The Secretary has been deeply involved in education at all levels. He has served as a Regent of the University of California, a Trustee of the California State Colleges and a Trustee of Occidental College. He also served on the faculty and was formerly a member of the Advisory Boards of both Palos Verdes College and Marymount College in California.

Robert Finch was born in Tempe, Arizona, on October 9, 1925, the son of Robert L. and Gladys Hutchison Finch. He has been a resident of California since 1933. As a boy he earned the Eagle Scout Award with silver palm and graduated from Inglewood High School, California, where he was editor of his school newspaper, lettered in track and football and was elected president of the student body.

Robert Finch received his B.A. degree in political science from Occidental College and earned his law degree at the University of Southern California Law School. Again he was elected president of the student body at both institutions. He was awarded Doctor of Law degrees by Occidental College and Lincoln University in 1967, and the University of California at Los Angeles and the University of Southern California in 1969.

In 1943, at the age of 19, Robert Finch enlisted in the Marines, serving for two years. He was recalled to active duty in 1951, during the Korean War, and was discharged First Lieutenant. Following his return to civilian life, in 1953, he organized his own law firm, Finch, Bell, Duitsman & Margulis, and later organized and served as president of a savings and loan association. He resigned from his law firm upon selection as Secretary of HEW.

As Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Robert Finch oversees some 270 programs which touch every major aspect of life from birth to death, operates a $51 billion budget, second only to the Department of Defense, and has 110,000 employees on his payroll.

Currently, as a member of President Nixon's Cabinet, Secretary Finch is a member of the Urban Affairs Council and Chairman of the Council's subcommittees on Welfare and Education. He also serves as a member of the following subcommittees: Future of the Poverty Program and OEO; Future of the Model Cities Program; Land Use and Development; and Surplus Food and Nutrition.

The Secretary is a member of the Cabinet Committees on Voluntary Action and the Environmental Quality Council. Among his many responsibilities as Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Secretary Finch serves as Chairman of the President's Council on Aging, the Interdepartmental Committee on Children and Youth, the Federal Radiation Council, the Distinguished Civilian Service Awards Board, the President's Committee on Mental Retardation and the Air Quality Advisory Board.

He has also been designated a member of 23 other boards and commissions including the Board of Governors of the American National Red Cross, the Board of Trustees of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, the Economic Opportunity Council, the Interdepartmental Committee on the Status of Women and the Council for Urban Affairs.

Secretary Finch is married to the former Carol Crothers and they have four children.

RICHARD BRADFIELD
Doctor of Science

Distinguished international soil scientist and imaginative leader in research, whose achievements have brought him world-wide recognition

The leadership of Richard Bradfield in applying the basic principles of chemistry and physics to the science of soils makes him a symbol of America's contribution to the global search for freedom from hunger. His unusual ability to apply the scientific method to agricultural problems earned him the respect of soil scientists and physical and colloidial chemists, while his achievements in the colloidal chemistry of soils were rewarded with a Guggenheim Fellowship for study at the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute in Berlin.

Reared on a farm in Madison County, Ohio, he majored in chemistry for the A.B. degree at Otterbein College and received the first Ph.D. degree by The Ohio State University in the field of soils.

As a teacher he inspired students to greater heights of creativity and productivity, and they have achieved major national and world positions of leadership in agriculture. Dr. Bradfield has served with distinction as Professor of Soils at the University of Missouri, Professor of Agronomy at The Ohio State University, and Head of the Department of Agronomy at Cornell University, where the new agronomy building has been dedicated Bradfield Hall in his honor.

Dr. Bradfield served as a member of the board of trustees of the Rockefeller Foundation, and was one of three stellar scientists who laid the groundwork for the agricultural revolution in Mexico. The principles inaugurated in Mexico and described by Dr. Bradfield and his colleagues in their book, Campaigns Against Hunger, have become the basis of the green revolution in India, Pakistan, and the Philippines. Dr. Bradfield's procedures for rice production in the Philippines promise revolutionary changes in the culture of Southeast Asia's major food crop.

His professional colleagues have recognized his leadership by electing him president of the Soil Science Society of America, the American Society of Agronomy, and the International Society of Soil Science. Otterbein College conferred upon him the honorary degree, Doctor of Science.

The Ohio State University is proud to honor this distinguished alumnus and former faculty member who exemplifies the ultimate in professional excellence.

HENRY STEELE COMMAGER
Doctor of Letters

Eminent historian, interpreter of the American heritage, and exponent of freedom, equality, loyalty, and dissent

Henry Steele Commager, a distinguished and productive scholar, has written and edited works on American intellectual, political, and constitutional history, biographies, anthologies, and essays on contemporary problems. His writings, esteemed by fellow historians, have won wide popular audiences in this country and abroad. He has attempted to put present issues in historical perspective and has not hesitated to speak vigorously and cogently in support or condemnation of public policies in domestic and foreign affairs.

Henry Commager's ancestors were among the pioneer settlers of Ohio. Born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, in 1902, he spent part of his youth in Toledo. He took bachelor's, master's, and Ph.D. degrees at the University of Chicago, receiving the doctorate in 1928. In a professorial career spanning more than four decades, Dr. Commager has taught at New York University, Columbia University, and Amherst College and has held appointments at major universities in Europe and the Americas. Devoted students in all parts of the country testify to his dedication to and effectiveness in the art of teaching.

The Growth of the American Republic, which Professor Commager wrote in collaboration with Samuel Eliot Morison, has elevated standards of college instruction in American history. Commager's Documents of American History makes fundamental sources available to teachers and students at every academic level. His provocative study, The American Mind, has influenced teaching and stimulated research in American intellectual history.

As one of the general editors of the New American Nation series, he is responsible for one of the most ambitious undertakings in contemporary historical scholarship.

Henry Steele Commager has sought to discover and reveal the characteristics and meaning of American civilization. In a troubled, uncertain era he has been an eloquent spokesman of democratic and humane values and a courageous defender of freedom of inquiry.

The Ohio State University takes pride in recognizing Dr. Commager's services to his profession and to his country.
PAUL J. FLORY
Doctor of Science

Pioneering and continuously productive student of the macromolecular realm, whose service to science is of rare distinction

The great importance of his scientific specialty, the study of polymeric and macromolecular substances, and his remarkable contributions to it, have combined to make Paul J. Flory an internationally renowned and honored scholar.

Dr. Flory received the B.S. degree from Manchester College and the M.S. and Ph.D. degrees from The Ohio State University. From 1934 to 1948 he was successively a research chemist at E. I. du Pont de Nemours, a research associate at the University of Cincinnati, a research chemist with Standard Oil of New Jersey, and a section head in the laboratories of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company. In 1948 he left industry to become, in turn, Professor of Chemistry at Cornell, Executive Director of Research at the Mellon Institute, and Professor of Chemistry at Stanford where, in 1965, he was named the first Jackson-Wood Professor of Chemistry.

Dr. Flory has pioneered in research on the constitution and properties of macromolecules, including their formation via polymerization and their physical and thermodynamic properties. His investigations have included theoretical and experimental studies and have employed the methods of statistical mechanics in developing generic characterizations of the physical chemistry of macromolecules.

His research has been reported in more than two hundred scientific papers and two books which he has written or for which he has served as co-author. Dr. Flory's Principles of Polymer Chemistry has been referred to as "the fundamental polymer textbook for industry," and his Configuration of Chain Molecules has contributed significantly to the understanding of molecular structure. Formal recognition of his stature has come many times in the honors bestowed upon him by his fellow chemists and scientific colleagues, both in this country and abroad.

A member of the National Academy of Sciences, Dr. Flory has received the Colwyn Medal of the Institution of the Rubber Industry, the International Award in Plastics and Science Engineering of the Society of Plastics Engineers, and the High Polymer Physics Prize of the American Physical Society. In 1945, Dr. Flory was the recipient of the Joseph Sullivant Medal of The Ohio State University for outstanding contributions to his profession and his alma mater.

This University takes pride in recognizing the pre-eminent contributions of Paul J. Flory by conferring upon him the honorary degree, Doctor of Science.

THOMAS CARLYLE JONES
Doctor of Science

Veterinary scientist who has contributed immeasurably to the health of animals and man through innovative educational methods

Scholarly productivity and administrative ability give Dr. Thomas Carlyle Jones a pre-eminent position in veterinary medicine today. His achievements in pathology were recognized internationally in March, 1970, when he was installed as president of the International Academy of Pathology.

He received his undergraduate and professional education at Washington State University and was graduated with highest honors. One of his early major accomplishments was the establishment of veterinary pathology as a modern functional discipline through his studies and discoveries on a wide variety of animal disease problems.

While at the Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Dr. Jones started the Section of Veterinary Pathology as part of the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology and developed an advanced training program which continues today as the model of professional educational methods. He conceived and organized the first specialty board in the veterinary medical profession, the American College of Veterinary Pathologists. Serving for ten years as executive secretary and later as president of that organization, Dr. Jones was instrumental in establishing standards and organizational structure which have served as the basis for the development of all veterinary medical specialties.

Through his service as chairman of the Advisory Board on Veterinary Medical Specialties of the American Veterinary Medical Association, Dr. Jones has guided the formation of all veterinary medical specialty organizations. The culmination of his efforts to develop veterinary pathology was his publication of a textbook on veterinary pathology which has been acclaimed as the classic in its field.

Dr. Jones' career also has produced important contributions to comparative pathology. In 1967, he was appointed Director of Pathology at Angell Memorial Animal Hospital, associate clinical professor of pathology at Harvard Medical School, and associate director of the New England Regional Primate Center where he has had wide influence in stimulating comparative studies on animal models of human diseases.

The Ohio State University is proud to honor a man whose leadership has greatly enhanced veterinary medicine as a modern medical science and furthered the advancement of the health of animals and man.
J. WALTER SEVERINGHAUS
Doctor of Humane Letters

Noted architect and designer of leading contemporary buildings, whose professional excellence enhances man's constructed environment

A constant consideration for man in a man-planned environment characterizes the innovation in humanistic architecture of J. Walter Severyinghaus and has earned international respect and admiration for his work.

Mr. Severyinghaus was graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Ohio Wesleyan University and with highest honors in architecture from The Ohio State University. In 1987 he joined the firm of Skidmore, Owings and Merrill in New York, where he advanced rapidly to become a senior partner in 1949.

In 1960 he was elected a Fellow of the American Institute of Architects, in recognition of excellence in architectural design—an honor accorded less than one per cent of all architects in the United States. In 1965 he was honored as a Distinguished Alumnus of The Ohio State University's College of Engineering.

His architectural firm has achieved a world-wide reputation for excellence. Assignment of high priority to human values characterizes every SOM project, regardless of its scope or complexity. Prompted originally by declining resources of skilled labor in many areas of the construction industry, this firm has utilized the capabilities of modern American technology in mass production, on-site assembly, and in adaptation to the skills available. The senior partners and project architects have been identified prominently in a long series of citations awarded to their firm by representatives of the public at large, the clients, and the profession of architecture.

Among the many outstanding structures designed by Mr. Severyinghaus are the facilities for United States airfields in Morocco, buildings for the Ford Motor Company in Dearborn, the International Arrivals Building and the United Airlines Terminal in New York, the First City National Bank in Houston, and the Chase Manhattan Bank in New York. His latest project is the New York Stock Exchange, now in the final design stage.

At a time when man's total surroundings are subjected to ever closer scrutiny and evaluation, this University is proud to honor a distinguished architect whose completed buildings add beauty, utility, and order to America's constructed environment.

JAMES A. SHANNON
Doctor of Science

Distinguished physician, under whose leadership the National Institutes of Health became a major national resource for the support of medical education and research

The “Shannon Era” has already become legendary in the history of biomedical research in the United States. By application of his many abilities in the practical political world, James A. Shannon was able to guide the development of the National Institutes of Health into the remarkable program to which our Nation owes so much.

A graduate of the College of the Holy Cross, he received his M.D. and Ph.D. from New York University. Dr. Shannon has contributed substantially, as physiologist and later as a clinician, to our knowledge about the kidney, and during World War II, to our knowledge of malaria, a major health hazard to our armed forces.

He went to Washington, D.C., in the early days of the National Institutes of Health, first as Associate Director of the National Heart Institute in charge of research. Later he became Associate Director of the National Institutes of Health, and from 1955 until 1968, he served as Director.

Under his direction, the program expanded massively through grants to universities, through fellowships, and through a variety of collaborative efforts. Scientific developments, such as drug therapy for high blood pressure, vaccination for poliomyelitis, modern cardiovascular surgery, and a whole new era of clinical medicine occurred. With the support of NIH programs, the medical schools of this country became the modern medical centers of today.

Under Dr. Shannon's direction, the National Institutes of Health maintained a steady course of progress and developed a long-term program which brought medicine, dentistry, nursing, veterinary medicine, pharmacy, and other biological and scientific fields into a coalition for health. The impact of this program has been felt directly by every academic medical center, medical student, and physician in the United States. The rapid development of bio-engineering on the Ohio State campus is a case in point.

Through Dr. Shannon’s medical and administrative ability, combined with creative and resourceful planning, a great contribution of major proportions was made toward the broad goal of truly scientific medicine and better health care for the citizens of the United States. The Ohio State University is proud to honor Dr. James A. Shannon for his unique contributions to medical education and research.
S. FRED SINGER

Doctor of Science

Eminent scientist, educator, author, and public servant, whose fundamental contributions to the physical sciences have won international acclaim.

Starting as an experimentalist and gradually shifting into theoretical areas, S. Fred Singer has fashioned a career highlighted by innovations in pioneering endeavors. He has followed his scientific interests into many different areas of geophysics, and his contributions to each have been substantial, often generating further research.

Born in Vienna, Austria, in 1924, he received the Bachelor of Electrical Engineering degree from The Ohio State University in 1943, the A.M. from Princeton in 1944, and the Ph.D. in physics in 1948 from Princeton. Since 1946, Dr. Singer's positions have covered a wide spectrum of academic endeavors and public service.

From 1946 to 1950 he was a physicist at the Applied Physics Laboratory of Johns Hopkins University where he engaged in high altitude research using balloons and high altitude research rockets. Under his direction, physical phenomena which had been previously inaccessible were first brought within the scope of measurement.
Later, holding high-level government and academic positions, he made numerous fundamental contributions in such diverse areas as relativity theory, the origin and age of meteorites, properties of interplanetary dust, moon surface composition, primary cosmic rays, ionospheric currents, magnetic storms and aurorae, and radiation-belt theory.

While serving as first director of the National Weather Satellite Center, Dr. Singer was instrumental in the development of the TIROS meteorological satellite. He has served as Professor and Dean of the School of Environmental and Planetary Sciences at the University of Miami and is presently the U.S. Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Interior for Scientific Programs. Dr.
Singer has received numerous honors for his pioneering research, including a Special Commendation from President Eisenhower for outstanding achievement in the development of satellites for scientific purposes and the first Astronautics Medal of the British Interplanetary Society.

The University is proud to honor a distinguished scientist whose brilliant insight has shed light upon many areas of man's knowledge of the universe.

Through the Alumni Association and the Ohio State Development Fund, annual awards have been provided to recognize and give evidence of the importance placed on superior teaching in the University and to provide encouragement and incentive for teaching achievement.

The 1969-1970 Alumni Awards for Distinguished Teaching, including cash awards of $1,000 each, were presented to the following recipients at a ceremony on May 27, 1970:

E. Milton Boone, Electrical Engineering
Simon Dinitz, Sociology
W. Thomas Lippincott, Chemistry
William A. Lyell, E. Asian Languages and Literature
Joseph J. Quaranta, Education
Frieda I. Shirk, Nursing
William J. Tynan, Animal Science
Milton Wyman, Veterinary Medicine

All faculty members engaged in teaching and on full-time appointment, with the rank of instructor through full professor, are eligible for consideration. Previous recipients of the award are not eligible, but any person who has been previously nominated may be nominated again. The awards are based primarily on teaching achievement, although scholarly activity and productivity as reflected in the quality of the teaching and its impact on students are taken into account.

Nominations are made by students, faculty, and alumni. A committee of undergraduate and graduate students evaluate all nominations and submit the names of twenty to thirty nominees to the Committee on Awards for Distinguished Teaching. The members of this Committee select the recipients.

Dear Ned:

We have been notified that Mr. Burton Merle Collins, a student who graduated in June 1970 with a Bachelor of Arts degree and a cumulative point-hour ratio of 3.562 should have the honor of cum laude shown on his diploma. He has been instructed to return his diploma to Mrs. Smith for this change and we are correcting the records of the Faculty Cou to show this correction.

I am sending a copy of this letter to Mrs. Bazler and also Mrs. Marine.

Sincerely yours,

Charles W. McLaran
Secretary
