Commencement Address

E. Gordon Gee

E. Gordon Gee became the 11th president of The Ohio State University on September 1, 1990.

A native of Utah, Gee received his bachelor's degree in history from the University of Utah in 1968 and a law degree and doctorate in education from Columbia University in 1971 and 1972, respectively. At Columbia, he was a Harlan Fiske Stone Scholar and a Kellogg Fellow.

Returning to the University of Utah in 1973, Gee served as assistant law dean for one year before becoming a judicial fellow and senior staff assistant in the chambers of the Chief Justice of the United States from 1974 to 1975. He then joined the faculty of the J. Reuben Clark Law School at Brigham Young University, serving as associate law dean and professor of law from 1975 to 1979.

In 1979, Gee was named dean of the law school at West Virginia University, and, in 1981, became president of West Virginia, a state-assisted institution with two campuses and 20,000 students. Four years later, he became the 15th president of the University of Colorado, another state-assisted institution with four campuses and 41,000 students.

A recipient of a number of prestigious honors in the fields of law and education, Gee has authored or co-authored six books, including Information Literacy: Revolution in the Library, which won the American Library Association G. K. Hall Award in 1990 for the outstanding contribution to library literature.

Recipients of Honors

William N. Lipscomb, Jr. Doctor of Science

One of America's foremost scientists, William N. Lipscomb, Jr.'s work spans the range of modern chemistry from his pioneering research on the molecular structures and bonding of boron hydrides to his current studies of enzyme mechanisms.

Dr. Lipscomb received his bachelor of science degree from the University of Kentucky in 1941 and his doctorate from the California Institute of Technology in 1946, where his major thesis adviser was Linus Pauling. He was a member of the physical chemistry faculty at the University of Minnesota from 1946 until 1959, when he joined the faculty of Harvard University as professor of chemistry. He served as chair of Harvard's chemistry department from 1962 to 1965 and currently is Abbott and James Lawrence Professor.

When Dr. Lipscomb began his work on boron hydrides, little was known of these unusual man-made molecules. He and his group of researchers were able to provide the first clear picture of the forces holding boron hydrides together. In 1976, Dr. Lipscomb received the Nobel Prize in Chemistry for this seminal research, combining theoretic and experimental organic and inorganic chemistry.

Dr. Lipscomb's scholarly activities are now focused on the relationship of three-dimensional structure and function as applied to enzymes and other proteins—research with major biomedical implications.

His scientific achievements have been recognized throughout the world. He is an elected member of the National Academy of Sciences, a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, an honorary member of the Chemical Society (London), a foreign member of the Netherlands Academy of Arts and Sciences, a member of the Academie Europeenne des Sciences, des Arts et des Lettres (Paris), and an honorary fellow of the Royal Society of Chemistry (London).

Because of his sustained excellence as a researcher and his extraordinary ability, Dr. Lipscomb has the universal admiration of the international scientific community. Ohio State is proud to add its recognition to his many honors.

Wendell W. Ellenwood Distinguished Service Award

For a quarter of a century, Wendell W. Ellenwood dedicated himself to serving the University community as director of the Ohio Unions. One of the true pioneers of student unions, he ensured that the Ohio Unions kept pace with changing populations and needs.

A 1943 graduate of Ohio State, Mr. Ellenwood lived in the Stadium Scholarship Dormitory throughout his undergraduate years. He then served with the U.S. Third Army field artillery.

After the war he returned to Ohio State, earning his master's degree in public administration in 1947. During his 11 years of service with the U.S. Civil Service Commission, he continued to work for his alma mater as volunteer director of Ohio State Development Fund campaigns in Cincinnati, Dayton, and Washington, D.C.

In 1958, he was named director of the Ohio Union at Ohio State. During his tenure, he oversaw an impressive number of student-oriented cultural, educational, and entertainment programs, including the Creative Arts Program of informal, non-credit courses, the Medieval and Renaissance Festival, the Creative Arts Festival, International Students Festival, and many more.

As the campus grew and enrollment increased, Ellenwood developed plans for the Drake Union, which opened in 1972 on the banks of the Olentangy River. Two years later, he initiated the first contract food service mall in any college union, a concept that has been widely copied throughout the country.

Mr. Ellenwood helped found five new Ohio State alumni clubs: Ohio Staters, the Stadium Scholarship Dormitories, TBDBITL (Marching Band), Army ROTC, and Ohio Union Activities. He was a recipient of The Ohio State University Centennial Award in 1970 and is an honorary member of Sphinx, Ohio State's senior honorary society.

For his incomparable contributions to his University as student, counselor, alumnus, and administrator, Ohio State is proud to recognize Wendell Ellenwood with its Distinguished Service Award.

Recipients of Honors

Albert J. Kuhn Distinguished Service Award

A highly respected academician and a skilled administrator, Albert J. Kuhn has served Ohio State with distinction for nearly four decades.

Dr. Kuhn began his academic career at Ohio State in 1954 having received his bachelor's degree in English from the University of Illinois and his doctorate in English literature from Johns Hopkins University. He moved rapidly through the academic ranks, becoming full professor of English in 1965 and serving as chair of the Department of English from 1964 to 1971.

During his years in the English department, Dr. Kuhn's creativity and energy were evident in his teaching and his committee work. He served on the University Library Council, the University Athletic Council, the Executive Committee of the Colleges of the Arts and Sciences, and The Ohio State University Press Editorial Board, among other major committees. He has published essays and articles on 18th and 19th century English intellectual history and literature and has edited three books.

In 1971, he accepted the position of acting provost and vice president for academic affairs, and was named provost in 1972, serving with sensitivity throughout that volatile period until 1979. That year he planned to return to teaching, hoping to end his academic career as it began. However, in 1986 his colleagues persuaded him to accept the leadership of the University Honors Center. His highly regarded reputation for academic integrity and his commitment to excellence were basic to the expansion and increased visibility of the Undergraduate Honors Program.

Dr. Kuhn retired from full-time service in 1989. As professor emeritus, he continues to give occasional readings and talks at the Honors Center, which now bears his name.

Ohio State is proud to recognize the many and varied achievements of this distinguished man of letters and is profoundly grateful for his years of service.

Paul E. Watkins Distinguished Service Award

A love of learning and a steadfast loyalty to his alma mater are ingrained in the life of Paul E. Watkins.

A 1958 graduate of Ohio State's College of Pharmacy, Mr. Watkins immediately went to work for the Student Book Exchange (SBX), which he now manages. Over the years, he has consistently shared his knowledge of books and the publishing industry to benefit the University.

As a generous, committed, and well-informed supporter of the humanities at Ohio State, Mr. Watkins has given unstintingly of his time, his counsel, and his resources to such units as the College of Humanities, the Department of Classics, the Center for Epigraphical Studies, the Department of English, the Department of Philosophy, the Logan Elm Press, and the University Libraries, among others.

He has served for seven years on the College of Humanities Development Council and has been instrumental in strengthening lines of communication between the University, its alumni, and the greater community. In his professional position, he has shown his commitment to the humanities by regularly stocking the scholarly works of Ohio State faculty.

His ties with the University Libraries are especially enduring. A member of the board of Friends of the Libraries for three years, he was elected president for a one-year term and then agreed to serve two additional terms. His willingness to serve the libraries manifests itself in countless hours devoted to the Friends' semi-annual book sales and other programs. In addition, he has quietly provided resources for many library needs.

With his wife, Sandra, he is serving as the 1991 Ohio State Parents Fund volunteer chair.

For his unfailing support and dedication to ensuring a dynamic community for scholars, Ohio State is proud to recognize Paul E. Watkins with its Distinguished Service Award.

Recipient of Honors

Robert J. Watkins Distinguished Service Award

A dynamic leader, generous supporter, and caring alumnus, Robert J. Watkins has proven his firm friendship for Ohio State many times over.

Mr. Watkins received his bachelor of arts and law degrees from Ohio State in 1951 and 1953 respectively. After a two-year stint as legal officer with the U. S. Army, Watkins joined the Procter & Gamble Company in Cincinnati as a legal assistant in 1956. He served in several legal capacities before becoming associate legal counsel in 1979, a position he held until his retirement ten years later. He currently is an attorney with the Cincinnati office of Porter, Wright, Morris & Arthur.

An active alumnus since his graduation, Mr. Watkins has been a stalwart supporter of the College of Law, helping to shape its future through 15 years' service on the college's National Council. He has played a leadership role in the Law Centennial Campaign, serving on the executive committee of the Henry Folsom Page Society, directing campaign strategy and soliciting fellow alumni.

He has served more than 21 years on various boards, executive committees, and councils for Ohio State's Development Fund and for The Ohio State University Campaign. A longtime member of Ohio State's Presidents Club, he served on its Executive Committee for two consecutive three-year terms and chaired the committee for the last two years of his term, presiding over numerous occasions with wit and skill.

Mr. Watkins provides a strong Ohio State presence in the Cincinnati area, instilling others with enthusiasm for his alma mater and aiding the College of Law with admissions and placement activities. During The Ohio State University Campaign, he provided invaluable advice as volunteer chair for the Cincinnati region.

For providing a benchmark for alumni commitment and service to the University, Ohio State is proud to recognize Robert J. Watkins with its Distinguished Service Award.

This program is not an official graduation list.

While every effort is made to ensure accuracy in this commencement program, printing deadlines sometimes prevent inclusion of graduates' names, or may result in use of names of persons not completing graduation requirements. This printed program, therefore, should not be used to determine a student's academic or degree status. The University's official registry for conferral of degrees is the student's permanent academic record, kept by the Office of the University Registrar, 202 Lincoln Tower, 1800 Cannon Drive, Columbus, OH 43210-1230.

The Academic Costume

The colorful ceremonies of The Ohio State University Commencements derive from practices originating in the Middle Ages. When European universities were taking form in the 12th and 13th centuries, the scholars were usually clerics, and consequently they adopted costumes similar to those of their monastic orders. Cold halls and drafty buildings called for caps and floor-length capes with attached hoods, and the sobering influence of the church probably influenced the staid character of the caps and gowns.

As the control of the universities gradually passed from the church, some aspects of the costumes took on brighter hues. Old prints and engravings, however, reveal a strong similarity between the regalia worn in early universities and that of the present day.

In the light of our nation's English heritage, academic costume has been in use in the United States since colonial times. To establish a standard of uniformity in regard to the practice, an intercollegiate commission was formed to prepare a code for caps, gowns, and hoods that has since been adopted by all academic institutions.

Originally round, the shape of the cap is now the familiar mortarboard square—a shape which, according to ballad folklore, resembles a scholar's book. Legend also has it that the privilege of wearing a cap was the initial right of a freed Roman slave; the academic cap, therefore, has become a sign of the freedom of scholarship. The flowing gown has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship for it covers any dress that might indicate rank or social status. The hood, reserved at The Ohio State University for those receiving doctoral degrees, not only indicates the type of degree, but also is lined with the official colors of the University.

The Gown

Bachelor. Black, full cut with long pointed sleeves.

Master. Black, long or short sleeves with a re-shaped panel extended for each sleeve.

Doctor. Black with velvet panels on front of gown and three velvet bars on each sleeve. Color of the velvet may be black or distinctive of the field of study.

The Hood

Bachelor. Three feet long with a two-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Master. Three and one-half feet long with a three-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Doctor. Four feet in length with a five-inch-wide velvet edging and panel at the sides.

* Not usually worn by candidates for a degree.

The lining of all hoods, which is folded out, bears the official colors of the institution granting the degree. The color of the velvet indicates the field of study:

Dentistry	Lilac
Law	Purple
Medicine	Green
Musical Arts	Pink
Optometry	Sea-foam Green
Pharmacy	Olive Green
Philosophy	Dark Blue
Veterinary Medicine	Gray
