Alma Mater—Carmen Ohio
Graduates and guests led by
Kelley Anne Mack
Class of 1995

Ooh! come let’s sing Ohio’s praise,
And songs to Alma Mater raise;
While our hearts rebounding thrill,
With joy which death alone can still.
Summer’s heat or Winter’s cold,
The seasons pass, the years will roll;
Time and change will surely show
How firm thy friendship—Ohio.

Commencement Address

Shimon Peres
Doctor of Diplomacy

Following a half-century of service to the Israeli government, Shimon Peres became foreign minister in the Labor government of Yitzhak Rabin in July 1992. Peres, who was born in Poland, immigrated to Palestine with his parents in 1934. He became politically active in 1943 when he was named secretary of the Labor youth movement. During Israel's War of Independence, Peres served in the Hagana Defense Forces and as head of the navy. In 1953, at the age of 29, Peres was appointed by David Ben-Gurion, Israel's first prime minister, to the post of director general of the Ministry of Defense, a position he held until 1959. During this period, he was responsible for establishing Israel's electronic aircraft industry and for the nation's nuclear program.

In 1959 he was elected to the Knesset, Israel's parliament, and has remained a member ever since. He served as deputy minister of defense from 1959 to 1965. During the next 12 years, he held a variety of government posts in the newly formed Israel Labor Party, including minister of immigrant absorption, minister of transport and communication, and minister of information.

In 1976, as minister of defense, he masterminded the rescue of the Entebbe hostages in Uganda. In 1977, he was elected chairman of the Labor Party, a post he held until 1992. Upon the establishment of a National Unity Government in 1984, he served as prime minister, then as vice-premier and minister of foreign affairs. From 1988 until the dissolution of the National Unity Government in 1990, he served as deputy prime minister and minister of finance.

As Israel's foreign minister, Peres signed the historic 1993 peace treaty between Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organization, paving the way for limited Palestinian self-rule in Israeli-occupied territories. The following year, he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for his efforts in advancing peace in the Middle East.

Peres has authored ten books, including The Next Step (1965); David's Sling (1970); Entebbe Diary (1991); and The New Middle East (1993).

Ohio State is honored to welcome this distinguished statesman to address our graduates.
Recipient of Honors

Alberto P. Calderón
Doctor of Science

One of the most outstanding mathematicians of our time, Alberto P. Calderón pioneered the theory of singular integral operators, revolutionizing modern mathematical analysis.

Born in Mendoza, Argentina, Professor Calderón received a civil engineering degree from the University of Buenos Aires in 1947. In 1949, he was awarded a Rockefeller Fellowship to study with the eminent mathematician Antoni Zygmund at the University of Chicago, where he received his Ph.D. in mathematics in 1950. His early studies with Professor Zygmund matured into a collaboration that continues to benefit those in the mathematical sciences to this day.

Following his graduation from the University of Chicago, Professor Calderón spent three years as visiting associate professor at Ohio State, then became a temporary member of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton from 1954-1955. He joined the faculty of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1955 as an associate professor, moving to the University of Chicago as a full professor in 1959. In 1968 he was named Louis Block Professor of Mathematics and, in 1970, chairman of the mathematics department.

He returned to MIT in 1972 as professor of mathematics and in 1975 became University Professor of Mathematics at the University of Chicago until his 1985 retirement. From 1989 to 1992 he was emeritus professor with a post-retirement appointment at the University of Chicago. He has been honorary professor at the University of Buenos Aires since 1975. Professor Calderón has served as visiting professor at a number of American and European universities, including Cornell, Stanford, the National University of Bogotá, and the Universities of Paris, Madrid, Rome, and Göttingen.

He has published 78 scientific papers, many in collaboration with Professor Zygmund, and has supervised the work of nearly 30 doctoral students over the years, many of whom have become influential mathematicians themselves. He has also served as an associate editor of distinguished journals.

His stature in the field of mathematics has been recognized with numerous honors and awards, including the National Medal of Science, Israel's Wolf Prize, and the American Mathematical Society's Bocher Memorial Prize and Steele Prize.

It is with great pride that Ohio State honors this distinguished scientist and scholar.

David H. Hubel
Doctor of Science

An internationally renowned neurobiologist, David H. Hubel has revolutionized the field of visual science. His pioneering research on vision, done in collaboration with his colleague Torsten Wiesel, received the 1981 Nobel Prize in Medicine or Physiology. Today, as John Franklin Enders University Professor at Harvard University, he works with Dr. Margaret S. Livingstone studying the process by which the brain interprets visual information received from the eye.

Born in Windsor, Ontario, of American parents, Dr. Hubel graduated from McGill University in 1947 with a bachelor of science degree in mathematics and physics. He received his medical degree from McGill in 1951. Following his neurology residency at Montreal General Hospital, Montreal Neurological Institute, and Johns Hopkins University Hospital, he enlisted in the U.S. Army and spent three years at the Walter Reed Army Institute of Research, where he began his work on the neural mechanisms of vision.

Dr. Hubel began working with Torsten Wiesel in 1958 at the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine in the laboratory of Stephen Kuffler. A year later, Kuffler's team of researchers moved to Harvard University where they formed the new Department of Neurobiology in 1964. Dr. Hubel was named professor of neurophysiology in 1965 and George Pierce Berry Professor and chairman of the department of physiology in 1967. The following year he became Berry Professor of neurobiology, a post he held until 1982. He was named a Senior Fellow in the Harvard Society of Fellows in 1971.

During their 24-year long research collaboration, Drs. Hubel and Wiesel were largely responsible for the evolution of knowledge about the function and organization of visual cells in the cortex. Their studies of cortical cells in normal and deprived conditions were the first to demonstrate the importance of early treatment of infantile visual disorders.

The recipient of numerous awards throughout his distinguished career, Dr. Hubel holds several honorary degrees. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the Royal Society of Medicine and a member of a number of prestigious professional societies, including the National Academy of Science.

Ohio State proudly adds its own recognition of this dedicated and inspired researcher for his fundamental contributions to his field.
James Thurber

Doctor of Humane Letters

One of America's most beloved writers, humorists, and cartoonists, James Thurber was born, as he put it, in "the blowy uplands of Columbus, Ohio" a century ago. He graduated from East High School and enrolled at Ohio State, where he had a somewhat uneven academic career. He channeled his creative energies into editing the "Sundial," the university's humor magazine, and in writing plays and songs for The Strollers dramatic club.

After leaving the university in 1918 without a degree, he wrote a column entitled "Credos and Curios" for The Columbus Dispatch, worked as a code clerk for the State Department, then moved to France to work for the international edition of the Chicago Tribune. In 1926, he moved to New York City where he worked as a reporter for the Evening Post and tried unsuccessfully to sell his humor pieces. A meeting the following year with writer E.B. White led to an introduction to Harold Ross, the editor of a struggling new publication called The New Yorker. Ross hired Thurber as managing editor, beginning an extraordinarily productive partnership of man and magazine.

With White's encouragement, Thurber began to submit cartoons to The New Yorker, where he would eventually publish hundreds of cartoons and spot drawings. Thurber's illustrations were extremely popular during his lifetime (Henri Matisse called him "the only good artist you have in New York"), and his work appeared in advertising campaigns, in art galleries, and on clothing and tableware.

Between 1930 and 1961, Thurber published nearly 30 books, including collections of his New Yorker pieces; profiles of public figures; parodies of other writers and current events; and numerous short stories such as "The Catbird Seat" and "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty," two of the most anthologized pieces of modern fiction. His books also include The Owl in the Attic and Other Perplexities (1931); My Life and Hard Times (1933), an account of his Columbus college days spent in what is now the restored Thurber House; Fables for Our Time (1940); and The Years with Ross (1959), a reminiscence of his New Yorker experiences.

Although he refused an honorary degree from Ohio State in 1951 due to his strongly-held opposition to the House on Un-American Activities policies, Thurber subsequently showed renewed affection for his alma mater and spoke at the dedication of Denney Hall. He was the recipient of honorary degrees from Kenyon, Williams, and Yale during his lifetime. He died in New York City in 1961, leaving a legacy of literary humor.

Ohio State proudly, and at long last, recognizes that legacy.
Charlotte L. Immke
Distinguished Service Award

Charlotte Immke, although not an alumna of Ohio State, has become a valued member of the university community.

A native of Germany, she moved at the age of five to the United States with her parents and grew up in Cleveland. In 1963, she and her late husband, Leonard J. Immke, moved to Columbus where Mr. Immke started the highly successful automobile dealership, Len Immke Buick, Inc.

Mrs. Immke was involved in the auto dealership from the start and continues today as vice-president in the company now headed by her son James and nephew David.

Both Mrs. Immke and her husband shared a deep affection for Ohio State. In December 1991, following the death of her husband, Mrs. Immke was appointed to complete his term on the University Hospitals Board. At the conclusion of Mr. Immke's term, Mrs. Immke was appointed to her own term, which concludes in April 1996. Mr. and Mrs. Immke's primary medical interest was in cancer research, for which they endowed the Leonard J. Immke, Jr., and Charlotte L. Immke Chair in 1985. That chair is now fully funded and held by the eminent molecular biologist Dr. Neil M. Wilkie.

Mrs. Immke has given generously of both time and resources to numerous Ohio State programs, including student-athlete grants-in-aid, engineering, visual arts, the Marching Band, and WOSU. She was one of the earliest supporters of the Historic Costume Collection in the College of Human Ecology, hosting a major gala in the Immke auto showrooms to introduce the collection to Columbus.

She served as honorary chair of the "New Ventures, New Visions" campaign in the College of Human Ecology, which in late 1991 completed its mission to raise funds to build an addition, now under construction, to Campbell Hall.

Mrs. Immke maintains a lively interest in the university and is a life member of the Ohio State Alumni Association, the Presidents Club, and the Order of Hippocrates.

Long active in the community beyond the university, Mrs. Immke has served on numerous boards and committees, including Pilet Dogs, the Humane Society's Community Service Board, the Arthritis Foundation, and the Central Ohio Diabetes Association.

It is with deep gratitude that Ohio State recognizes the scope of Mrs. Immke's continuing interest, loyalty, and generosity toward the university.

C. William Swank
Distinguished Service Award

C. William Swank has been executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation since 1968. In this position, he has been a tireless supporter of legislative funding for The Ohio State University, especially the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences.

An Ohio native, Dr. Swank holds three degrees from Ohio State, having earned his doctoral degree in agricultural economics. He joined the staff of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation in 1956 and held various positions with the organization in both staff and management positions before being appointed executive vice president.

In addition to his Farm Bureau responsibilities, Dr. Swank has long been active on numerous boards and commissions at both the state and national level. He was a nine-year member of the Ohio Board of Regents and currently serves on the Regents' Committee on State Investment in Graduate and Professional Education. He also serves on the National Cooperative Business Association Board of Directors and is a member of the Ohio 4-H Foundation Board. He has been a member of the Otterbein College Board of Directors since 1989.

Dr. Swank has been instrumental in founding two endowed chairs at Ohio State: the Farm Income Enhancement Chair and the C. William Swank Chair in Rural and Urban Policy, recently established by Nationwide Insurance and the Farm Bureau in honor of Dr. Swank. He continues as a member of the Farm Income Enhancement Advisory Council, seeking ways to improve farm income through new uses for agricultural products and better marketing and production techniques. He is a member of Ohio State’s Project Reinvigorate Steering Committee, which is studying the role of the modern land-grant university. He has served as president of the Ohio State Alumni Association Board of Director and remains a member of its advisory council.

In recognition of his many efforts on behalf of his alma mater, Dr. Swank has received the Ralph Davenport Mershon Award from the Ohio State Alumni Association and the Meritorious Service Award from the Agriculture Alumni Association. He is a member of the Ohio State Fair Hall of Fame, the recipient of both state and national FFA honorary American Farmer degrees. In 1891 he was awarded an honorary Doctor of Agriculture degree from Otterbein College.

Ohio State is proud to recognize the outstanding dedication of this energetic advocate for this university.
The Academy of Teaching

The Academy of Teaching represents excellence in teaching and reflects Ohio State's commitment to quality education. Membership in the Academy of Teaching is a great honor, reserved for those recipients of the Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching who are active faculty at the university. Its members are charged with promoting, enhancing, and recognizing good teaching. Their projects include mentoring young faculty members, helping prepare graduate students for teaching, serving as consultants and reviewers for departments, and advising the president and the chief academic officers on important issues relating to teaching.

1995 Recipients of the Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching

David S. Adams
Associate Professor
Department of Sociology

David Adams has taught the gamut of courses in sociology at the Lima campus with up-to-the-minute awareness his field. He uses student-oriented teaching methods, real world examples, and humor to make classes lively and interesting. His students praise his teaching ability, his genuine interest in their success, and his easy manner which encourages questions and participation. They were particularly appreciative of the efforts he made to relate sociological concepts to their own lives and experiences. "He made the information that he was presenting 'real' to us," said one.

Pamela A. Burdette
Assistant Professor
Department of Home Economic Education

Pamela Burdette teaches a capstone course in international family issues in the Middle East, as well as other undergraduate and graduate courses in home economics education. She is described as an expert in cultural sensitivity in the teaching process and as a dedicated and devoted teacher who has a passion for her subject. Students in her classes often comment on how much additional work they pursued on their own because of the interest Dr. Burdette generated. "Sincere," "professional," "on-task," and "personable" are some of the adjectives used to describe her. She is "a teacher with not only knowledge, but wisdom, caring, and commitment," said a colleague, who also noted, "she inspires her students and peers."

Caroline A. Breitenberger
Assistant Professor
Department of Biochemistry

Caroline Breitenberger teaches molecular genetics in clear, concise lectures. "Impeccably organized," "energetic and enthusiastic," and "clear and eloquent" are just some of the terms used to describe her lectures. Her students also laud Dr. Breitenberger for her willingness to help them outside the classroom with their scientific studies and academic pursuits. "She takes personal interest in her students' progress and liberally gives time outside the classroom to students who need extra help," wrote one nominator. Others credited her with preparing them for medical school or inspiring them to pursue graduate research.

Daniel J. Christie
Professor
Department of Psychology

Daniel Christie is judged as a tough but fair teacher who has high expectations for his students at the Marion campus. "He challenges students in a way that they willingly push themselves to meet his challenges," noted one student. "I have found myself doing more than I thought I was capable of, and that is a satisfying experience."

Dr. Christie is generous with his time outside class and has helped many students extend their learning through professional activity, field trips, and cultural events.

An Ohio State faculty member since 1975, he was also a recipient of this award in 1985 and of the Distinguished Affirmative Action Award in 1994.
Michael D. Davis
Professor
School of Music

Michael Davis is described as a superb teacher, distinguished musician, and a great colleague who discovers hidden riches in students. Professor Davis teaches violin majors, conducts violin master classes, and maintains an active performance schedule as a violinist.

His students cite his ability to nurture their self-confidence as well as their musical skills. He is described as "a wonderfully caring friend and mentor" who has even gone as far as to lend his own violin to a student who needed a better instrument for an international competition.

Brian D. Joseph
Professor and Chairperson
Department of Linguistics

Brian Joseph was nominated by his students with such phrases as "he radiates goodness," "approachable, warm, and supportive," and "a brilliant scholar who can communicate with the rest of us earthlings." They also noted that he is always well prepared for class; proficient at explaining difficult concepts to students of varying abilities and levels of preparation; and diplomatic, fair and democratic in his dealings with students and colleagues. He teaches courses in historical linguistics and Sanskrit to both undergraduates and graduates, tailoring his presentations and expectations to appropriate levels for each.

John F. Disinger
Professor
School of Natural Resources

John Disinger has consistently been ranked by students as one of the top teachers in the School of Natural Resources since he joined the faculty in 1971. "Dr. D." is known for the personal interest he takes in his students' careers and for his open door policy. "He has been like a father to me," said one student, who also noted, "As a TA for him for five quarters, I saw him teach the same course with as much excitement the fifth time as the first. And he always updated his lectures, adding new information."

A colleague calls Dr. Disinger's office "a modern library unto itself" and observes that "he pulls his class material from the latest literature in his field."

William H. von Hippel
Assistant Professor
Department of Psychology

William von Hippel teaches research methods in social psychology and a course dealing with prejudice and stereotyping. He was cited for his ability to handle potentially emotionally explosive subjects with objectivity and respect, using well-chosen examples and analogies that allowed the students to make the lessons more understandable. "His examples are great; his level of enthusiasm is inspiring!" wrote one student.

Several nominators noted that when his class was oversubscribed, he voluntarily offered a second section to accommodate the overflow and keep the class sizes small enough to facilitate discussion.
J. Robert Warnbrod
Professor
Department of Agricultural Education

J. Robert Warnbrod is described as constantly working to improve his teaching and as the national guru in research methodology in agricultural education. "Civility, elegance, and humor" are characteristics of Dr. Warnbrod's teaching, according to one nominator, who also praised his clarity of presentation and effective organization of class material. His regularly scheduled study sessions were cited as an example of the extra attention he gives to student success.

An international student wrote, "When I go back to my country to teach, I will remember him and use him as my teaching model." Dr. Warnbrod also won this award in 1972.

Mohamed F. Yousif
Associate Professor
Department of Mathematics

Mohamed Yousif teaches several courses in first- and second-year math at the Lima campus. He is considered particularly effective in teaching math to non-majors, reducing their anxiety and helping them gain confidence and a strong foundation in the field. His dean wrote, "Students who have never met a number that didn't frighten them begin to believe that there must be something in mathematics after all. That is a great contribution all by itself."

His students commend his patience, his genuine interest in them, his willingness to answer questions at any time, and his encouraging manner. "It was not 'us-him' but just an 'us' atmosphere," said one.
Most of us measure our lives in year-long cycles, beginning in January and ending in December. But those of us in education observe a different calendar—one in which the year-end celebration is a graduation, and the days are counted in quarters or semesters.

For college students, the cycle begins that first autumn when they arrive on campus and advances through classes and exams, vacations and summer jobs, until commencement day finally arrives. And that day comes once four times a year when students from Ohio State graduate to the cheers of proud relatives and friends.

Now, these newly minted alumni will look back briefly and move on, shifting into the day-to-day rhythms of hoped-for employment. They will leave behind late nights filled with cold pizza and hot debate. No more 7:30 in the morning classes, but instead a 7:30 commute to the office. No more papers due for class, but reports due for work. They will trade their backpacks for briefcases, their ball caps for business suits.

There is no doubt that they have been changed by their college experience. Those years spent at a major research university represent not only a growth in knowledge, but a growth in wisdom and common sense—a maturing process that prepares a student for life in the "real world." And that world does not stand still.

We need only look at the capitals of the world and the corporations of America to realize that powerful forces have been at work. During the time it has taken this most recent crop of graduates to complete their educations, the Soviet Union has come apart, Germany has come together, ethnic warfare has erupted, trade barriers have fallen, and once-mighty businesses have been brought to their knees by economic forces.

Today's graduates are being launched into a world made smaller by the media and larger by the scope of our global dilemmas: the environment, ethics, illiteracy, racism, sexism, revolution, protest, famine, and poverty.

The world is crying for the compassion and creativity of our graduates. And we need their considerable energy and ingenuity to resolve conflicts, regain civility, and restore our spirits.

That is why, for all of us, graduation is a time that renews our hope in the future. As I preside over Ohio State's commencement, I am impressed by the intelligence, dedication, and vigor of our new college graduates, young and not so young. And I feel an old, familiar feeling: optimism. Optimism about the actions our industries are taking to regain a competitive edge. Optimism about the adjustments education is making in response to a changing society. And, most of all, optimism about and faith in this new generation that is about to take its place in our society.

Today, as many of them leave school behind, their memories are bittersweet. One of Ohio State's engineering graduates sent me a letter that, I believe, captures the great joy we share in this special rite of passage and the strength of the educational process. She wrote, "There will be at least one chemical engineer with a tear in her eye as the national anthem is played, a lump in her throat as her college is introduced, a smile on her face as she gets her diploma, and a cry of joy as her father hugs her and says, 'I am so proud of you!'"

It is a pride in which we can all share. I thank this graduate, and thousands like her, for all they will bring to our society. They are very bright. They work very hard. They have learned to live without security, but they continue to seek it. They are ready not only to cope with change, but to create change. And they have turned away from "me-ism" and are again seeking ways to help their fellow human beings.

I am confident that when this generation assumes leadership, America will be in very good hands.

This program is not an official graduation list

While every effort is made to ensure accuracy in this commencement program, printing deadlines sometimes prevent inclusion of graduates' names, or may result in use of names of persons not completing graduation requirements. This printed program, therefore, should not be used to determine a student's academic or degree status. The University's official registry for conferral of degrees is the student's permanent academic record, kept by the Office of The University Registrar, 202 Lincoln Tower, 1800 Cannon Drive, Columbus, Ohio 43210.

The Academic Costume

The colorful ceremonies of The Ohio State University Commencements derive from practices originating in the Middle Ages. When European universities were taking form in the 12th and 13th centuries, the scholars were usually clerics, and consequently they adopted costumes similar to those of their monastic orders. Cold halls and drafty buildings called for caps and floor-length capes with attached hoods, and the sobering influence of the church probably influenced the staid character of the caps and gowns.

As the control of the universities gradually passed from the church, some aspects of the costumes took on brighter hues. Old prints and engravings, however, reveal a strong similarity between the regalia worn in early universities and that of the present day.

In the light of our nation’s English heritage, academic costume has been in use in the United States since colonial times. To establish a standard of uniformity in regard to the practice, an intercollegiate commission was formed to prepare a code for caps, gowns, and hoods that has since been adopted by all academic institutions.

Originally round, the shape of the cap is now the familiar mortarboard square—a shape which, according to ballad folklore, resembles a scholar's book.

Legend also has it that the privilege of wearing a cap was the initial right of a freed Roman slave; the academic cap, therefore, has become a sign of the freedom of scholarship. The flowing gown has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship, for it covers any dress that might indicate rank or social status. The hood, reserved at The Ohio State University for those receiving doctoral degrees, not only indicates the type of degree, but also is lined with the official colors of the university.

The Gown

Bachelor. Black, full cut with long pointed sleeves.

Master. Black, long or short sleeves with a re-shaped panel extended for each sleeve.

Doctor. Black with velvet panels on front of gown and three velvet bars on each sleeve. Color of the velvet may be black or distinctive of the field of study.

The Hood

Bachelor. Three feet long with a two-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Master. Three and one-half feet long with a three-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Doctor. Four feet in length with a five-inch-wide velvet edging and panel at the sides.

* Not usually worn by candidates for a degree.

The lining of all hoods, which is folded out, bears the official colors of the institution granting the degree.

The color of the velvet indicates the field of study:
