Class of 1996

Oh! come let's sing Ohio's praise,
And songs to Alma Mater raise;
While our hearts rebounding thrill,
With joy which death alone can still.
Summer's heat or Winter's cold,
The seasons pass, the years will roll;
Time and change will surely show
How firm thy friendship—Ohio.

Awarding of Diplomas

President Gee looks forward to personally congratulating you and your graduate immediately following the ceremony in front of Larkins Hall, southeast of Ohio Stadium.

Excerpts from the commencement ceremony will be broadcast on WOSU-TV, Channel 34, at 5:30 p.m. today.

Commencement Address

John Jakes
Doctor of Humanities

John Jakes is acknowledged as a contemporary master of the literary family saga. Among his works, which blend strong storytelling with impeccable research and historical accuracy, are the enormously popular eight-volume Kent Family Chronicles, including The Bastard, The Rebels, and The Seekers, and his Civil War trilogy, which includes North and South.

More than 50 million copies of his works are currently in print, and six of his major novels have been filmed as television mini-series. The ABC-TV production of North and South is one of the 10 highest-rated mini-series ever.

The Chicago native began writing science fiction as a teenager. After selling his first story for $25, he abandoned his plans to become an actor and enrolled in creative writing at DePauw University, receiving his bachelor's degree in 1953. The following year he earned an M.A. in American literature from Ohio State.

For the next 16 years, Mr. Jakes worked as an advertising copywriter, writing fiction at night. By 1970, he had published some 200 short stories and 60 books, including westerns, juvenile fiction, mysteries, and historical works. In 1971, he left the advertising world to pursue writing full time.

He began work on the Kent Family Chronicles in 1973. The eight paperbacks were all bestsellers. In 1975, Mr. Jakes became the first author to have three books on The New York Times bestseller list in a single year. In 1993, Homeland, the first of a new cycle of novels about a 20th century Chicago family, became his 13th consecutive New York Times-listed bestseller.

He has been a research fellow in the University of South Carolina's history department since 1989. He is the recipient of the National Cowboy Hall of Fame's Western Heritage Literary Award, a dual Celebrity and Citizen's Award from the White House Conference on Libraries and Information, the Ohioana Book Award for fiction, and the 1977 Ohio Governor's Award.

Active in literary and dramatic organizations, he is a member of the Authors Guild, the Dramatists Guild, American P.E.N., Western Writers of America, and The Players, and he continues to act and direct in community theater productions.

Ohio State proudly welcomes this beloved author and distinguished alumnus to address our graduating class.

Recipients of Honors

Neal Lane Doctor of Science

As director of the National Science Foundation (NSF), Neal Lane heads the independent government agency that provides federal support for research and education in science, mathematics, and engineering.

Prior to being named to the director's post in 1993, Dr. Lane was provost and professor of physics at Rice University in Houston, Texas.

A native of Oklahoma, he holds B.S., M.S., and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Oklahoma. Following graduation, he did postdoctoral work as an NSF fellow at Queen's University of Belfast, Northern Ireland, and as a visiting fellow at the Joint Institute for Laboratory Astrophysics in Boulder, Colorado. He was also recipient of an Alfred P. Sloan Foundation fellowship early in his career, studying at England's Oxford University.

He joined the Rice faculty in 1966 as assistant professor of physics, later becoming professor of physics and space physics and astronomy. In 1979, he took a one-year leave of absence from Rice to serve as director of the NSF Division of Physics. He left Rice in 1984 to become chancellor of the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs, returning in 1986 to assume the post of Rice University provost.

Widely recognized as a scientist and educator, Dr. Lane has authored or co-authored more than 90 scientific papers and publications, including a textbook on quantum physics, and has made numerous presentations on science and science policy throughout the world. He is a two-time recipient of Rice University's George R. Brown Prize for Superior Teaching.

His research has focused on theoretical atomic and molecular physics with an emphasis on collision phenomena.

Throughout his career, Dr. Lane has been active in the scientific and professional communities, participating in numerous advisory panels for federal and state agencies and on national and international scientific committees. He is a fellow of the American Physical Society, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and the American Association for the Advancement of Science and a member of the American Association of Physics Teachers.

Ohio State is proud to honor this eminent scientist, scholar, and administrator for his many achievements.

Chang-Lin Tien Doctor of Engineering

Chang-Lin Tien took office in 1990 as the University of California at Berkeley's seventh chancellor. The first Asian-American to head a major research university in the United States, Dr. Tien also holds the title of A. Martin Berlin Professor in Mechanical Engineering.

Born in Wuhan, China, Dr. Tien was educated in Shanghai and Taiwan, where his family fled after World War II. He completed his undergraduate studies at National Taiwan University and came to the United States in 1956. He earned a master's degree at the University of Louisville and a second master's and his Ph.D. at Princeton University.

He joined the Berkeley faculty in 1959 as an acting assistant professor of mechanical engineering. Rising through the academic ranks, he became a full professor, then chairman of the department. From 1983-85, he served as vice chancellor for research. He left Berkeley in 1988 to serve as executive vice chancellor and UCI Distinguished Professor at the University of California at Irvine.

As chancellor, Dr. Tien is deeply committed to broadening the democratic reach of higher education to all groups of people, believing that diversity of both student body and faculty is essential to the dynamics of a global community.

Internationally known for his work in heat transfer technology, Dr. Tien has encouraged a generation of students to explore the limits of the physics of thermal processes. In 1962, he became, at age 26, the youngest professor ever to win Berkeley's Distinguished Teaching Award. He has authored one book, edited ten volumes, published more than 300 scholarly articles, and served as editor of three international journals.

In 1981, he received the Max Jacob Award, the highest and most prestigious award given in the field of heat transfer. He is also the recipient of the Thermophysics Award from the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics.

He is a fellow of the National Academy of Science and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and a member of the National Academy of Engineering.

Ohio State proudly recognizes this eminent scientist and educator for his many contributions to the scholarly community.

Recipients of Honors

Billy A. Hill

Distinguished Service Award

Billy Hill was a member of Ohio State's Department of Athletics staff from 1971 to 1995, serving as head athletic trainer for football from 1974 until his untimely death in February 1995.

Mr. Hill had extensive experience in track, serving as head trainer for the United States' track teams at the 1984 Olympics in Los Angeles, the 1975 Pan American Games in Mexico City, and the 1983 World Track and Field Championships in Helsinki. He also toured the former Soviet Union, Germany, and Great Britain as the head trainer for various United States teams. In addition, he served as medical adviser to Golden Gloves Boxing from 1971 to 1986.

In May 1993, he was appointed to the United States Olympic Committee's Sports Medicine Council and was to have played an integral role in establishing the sports medicine policies for the 1996 Olympics in Atlanta.

A native of Memphis, Tennessee, Mr. Hill served three years in the U.S. Army, including a tour of duty as a medical specialist in Vietnam, before enrolling at Ohio State. He graduated in 1973 with a bachelor of science degree in education.

During his tenure at Ohio State, Mr. Hill served as friend and mentor to students, both athletes and non-athletes. He coordinated and taught in Ohio State's Student Trainer Workshop and, in 1990, worked with the university's Young Scholars Program as director of the National Youth Summer Program. He was instrumental in recruiting minority students to the university and continued to work with them to prepare them for life after college.

A constant advocate for Ohio State, Mr. Hill was responsible for bringing the Capital City Classic football game and tennis tournament to the campus. His involvement as a board member with the Martin Luther King Jr. Performing and Cultural Arts Center resulted in a partnership between the center and Ohio State.

He served as president of the Ohio Athletic Trainers Association, which named him University and Collegiate Trainer of the Year in 1988. He was posthumously inducted into their Hall of Fame as well as Ohio State's Athletic Hall of Fame in 1995. The Ohio State Buckeyes football team played their 1995-96 season in his honor.

Mr. Hill will long be remembered for his love of the university, his generosity of spirit, and his professional skill. Ohio State is proud to memorialize his far-reaching contributions.

John J. Schiff

Distinguished Service Award

John J. Schiff is founder of the Cincinnati Financial Corporation and today serves as chairman of its executive committee. He is also chairman of the executive committee of the Cincinnati Insurance Company, which he co-founded in 1950.

The Cincinnati native received his bachelor of science degree in commerce from Ohio State in 1938 and did further studies at the Navy Supply Corps School and Harvard University. Mr. Schiff served as assistant logistics commander, U.S. Naval Forces, Germany, during World War II. He was discharged a lieutenant commander and retains close ties to the U.S. Navy, serving on the national board of directors of the Navy League of the United States.

A loyal alumnus, Mr. Schiff has been actively involved with Ohio State since his graduation. He is a life member of The Ohio State University Alumni Association and a past president of the Cincinnati Ohio State Alumni Club. A longtime member of the Presidents Club, he served two terms on that group's executive committee. In 1989, he became a member of the Dean's Advisory Council of the Fisher College of Business. He currently serves on the Ohio State Foundation Board and on the National Major Gift Committee in Cincinnati.

Mr. Schiff has also played a leading role in securing support for a number of Ohio State's athletic projects, including the new baseball stadium. He has been creative and generous in finding ways to bring Ohio State alumni and friends together and has hosted many Ohio State events in Cincinnati and Florida.

An active member of the Cincinnati community, Mr. Schiff is past chairman of the Cincinnati Art Museum and has served as a trustee of the Hamilton County SPCA, the Salvation Army, the Child Health Association, the Cincinnati Institute of Fine Arts, the Hamilton County Development Committee, and the Queen City Club.

Among his many honors are the Cincinnati Insurance Board's Insurance Man of the Year, honorary degrees from the Cincinnati Art Academy and Xavier University, and the Highest Effort Award of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. In 1992, he received Ohio State's Alumni Citizenship Award. He has been named an honorary commodore by the United States Naval Institute.

It is with gratitude that Ohio State adds its own recognition of the loyalty and dedication of this exceptional alumnus.

The Academy of Teaching

The Academy of Teaching represents excellence in teaching and reflects Ohio State's commitment to quality education. Membership in the Academy of Teaching is a great honor, reserved for those recipients of the Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching who are active faculty at the university. Its members are charged with promoting, enhancing, and recognizing good teaching. Their projects include mentoring young faculty members, helping prepare graduate students for teaching, serving as consultants and reviewers for departments, and advising the president and the chief academic officers on important issues relating to teaching.

1996 Recipients of the Alumni Award for Distinguished Teaching

Deborah L. Bainer
Associate Professor
Department of Educational Theory and Practice

Dr. Bainer has taught since 1989 at the Mansfield campus, where she is responsible for classes in research methods, classroom management, and science education. She also coordinates the campus's program for education students working with the local schools and led the Mansfield campus through the transition from a four-year B.S. program in education to the five-year M.S. program. Currently, she is working to create partnerships between small groups of teachers and natural resource professionals.

A role model known for her professional yet friendly manner, she is also committed to helping students conduct research, and four of her advisees have won the College of Education Undergraduate Research award. One nominator wrote: "She is easy to talk to, yet challenges students' thinking. She was available when and where she said she would be. She has a wonderful sense of humor."

Sarah T. Boysen
Associate Professor
Department of Psychology

Dr. Boysen has been associated with the Department of Psychology since 1983, when she was named director of the Primate Cognition Project, a position she still holds. She is a highly recognized authority on the psychology of monkeys and apes, a subject which she teaches, along with seminars about women in science and comparative psychology. She is a mentor to many, particularly to women interested in science careers.

"Dr. Boysen combines scientific rigor, curiosity and academic expertise with humor and enthusiasm," wrote a nominator. Another noted her effectiveness in the classroom this way: "Dr. Boysen could teach the psychology of rocks and make it interesting."

Bruce E. Bursten
Professor
Department of Chemistry

Dr. Bursten, who also received this award in 1982, teaches inorganic chemistry at the advanced undergraduate and graduate levels, and general chemistry in both the regular and honors sequence. He is co-author of a general chemistry book used by some 70,000 students worldwide.

A member of the Ohio State faculty since 1980, Dr. Bursten has a reputation as an effective, enthusiastic teacher. Several student nominators credited him with inspiring them to choose chemistry as their major. Others, who took his classes as prerequisites for admission to various health sciences professional programs, were appreciative of his ability to lead them through difficult material.

"He was consistently enthusiastic and engaging, making otherwise tedious and complex material readily comprehensible," said one. "He made himself approachable even in a class of 300," said another.

Jay S. Hobgood
Associate Professor
Department of Geography

Dr. Hobgood teaches upper-level classes in atmospheric sciences and climatology, as well as an introductory class in physical geography. A faculty member since 1987, he developed the core curriculum in the atmospheric sciences program. His research, which uses the Ohio Supercomputer to simulate storms, concerns tropical cyclones. He is also working on a project to better simulate the activity of the Great Lakes and their impacts on human activity.

His department chair wrote: "For many students, Hobgood is the Atmospheric Sciences program. They have been engaged, excited, energized and helped to complete this demanding program by Hobgood."

Student nominators praised him with phrases such as: "easy to talk to," "a warm human being and a fine instructor," and "he knew everything he was talking about."

Jerome Masty
Assistant Professor
Department of Veterinary Biosciences

A faculty member since 1984, Dr. Masty teaches a number of anatomy courses to veterinary students, including the anatomy and neurosystems of cats, dogs, horses and food animals. He has produced many helpful study guides for his classes, including a color-coded guide to the nervous system and a self-tutorial on estimating horses' ages. He chaired the college's committee which looked into the use of animals in the first two years of the D.V.M. curriculum and is active in pursuing innovative techniques which lessen the number of animals needed for dissection.

"He embodies everything a member of the teaching faculty should," wrote one student. "He cares, he is tremendously knowledgeable, he is open to questions, and he gives his time beyond the classroom."

Timothy J. McNiven
Associate Professor
Department of Classics and
Department of History of Art

A member of the Marion campus faculty since 1985, Dr. McNiven teaches the history of art of several eras: medieval and Renaissance, modern world, Greek and Roman, and ancient world, as well as classes in classical civilization and classical mythology. He often volunteers to speak to campus and community groups about art and is active in a variety of Marion campus programs. He has frequently organized museum field trips for students and community members and preceded them with information sessions.

"He sparked an interest in me to a subject that I never would have been aware of or enjoyed without taking his classes," wrote one student. Another, citing his assistance in seeking and obtaining a scholarship to study in Europe, said, "Dr. McNiven changed my life."

Terry F. Pettijohn
Professor
Department of Psychology

The only three-time winner of this award, Dr. Pettijohn was recognized in 1980 and 1986. He has taught a wide range of psychology classes at the Marion Campus since 1974 and has a special interest in methods of teaching psychology. He is author of a popular introductory psychology textbook and a number of study guides, instructors' manuals, and computerized study and testing materials.

"He wants you to learn, and he is willing to do all he can to make that happen," wrote one nominator. "He appeals to all learning styles and makes the information interesting as well as useful," wrote another. "I enrolled in college a scared kid, and he had a definite part in opening up my mind and making me feel comfortable and confident about my abilities," said another.

Gay Su Pinnell
Professor
Department of Educational Theory and Practice

Dr. Pinnell teaches graduate level courses in early literacy studies. At Ohio State since 1983, she is largely responsible for bringing Reading Recovery to the United States and is one of the nation's foremost experts on programs for students at risk. According to her department chair, "Her work has benefited not only The Ohio State University, but also thousands of teachers and hundreds of thousands of students."

Much in demand across the nation as a consultant and expert on Reading Recovery, Dr. Pinnell embodies the land-grant tradition of combining teaching, research, and public service. Her nominators lauded her with such phrases as: "A woman of vision," "extremely knowledgeable," and "the very best ever."

James F. Rathman
Assistant Professor
Department of Chemical Engineering

Dr. Rathman teaches the introductory course in chemical engineering, as well as higher-level courses in thermodynamics and colloids and surfaces. He developed a homepage on the World Wide Web for each course, where students could refer to the syllabus, homework assignments, and study tips. He came to the Ohio State faculty in 1991 after several years in industrial research and development.

"I have learned from Dr. Rathman the kind of student and engineer I want to be," wrote one student nominator. "He helped me see my true potential." Another noted, "What I think is best about Professor Rathman is that whenever I asked him a question regarding homework or class materials, he would in turn ask me questions that would make me use my own thinking."

Carl R. Zulauf
Associate Professor
Department of Agricultural Economics

Dr. Zulauf teaches an introductory course in food and resource economics and an honors section of the same course. An Ohio State faculty member since 1980, he also teaches several advanced classes in public policy analysis, contemporary issues in agriculture, and commodity futures and options markets. A widely known expert on agricultural policy who has published extensively and is often quoted in the news media, he is operations manager for Project Reinvent, the Kellogg Foundation-supported effort to reexamine the role of land-grant universities.

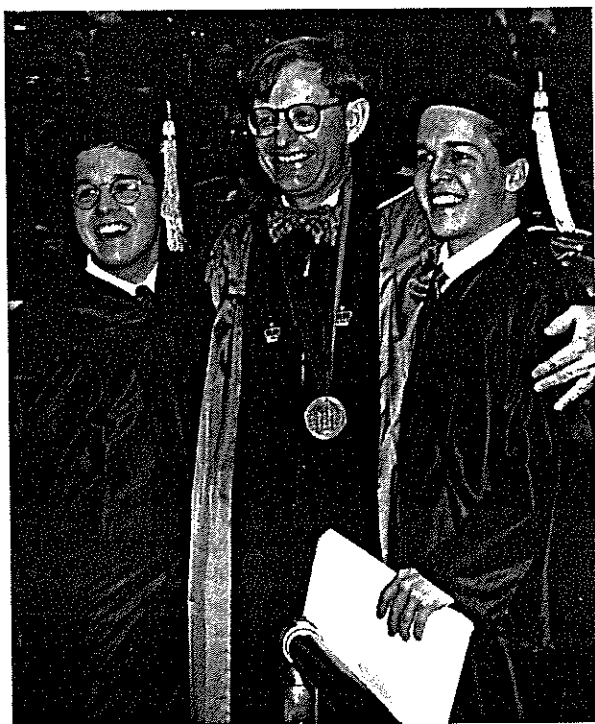

"He encourages new levels of thinking, reasoning, and communicating," wrote a nominator. Another noted, "More than just helping me with academic problems, he has made me feel at home, as well as more positive about my experience at OSU."

The Departmental Teaching Excellence Award

Sponsored by the Office of Academic Affairs and The Ohio State University Alumni Association, the Departmental Teaching Excellence Award honors outstanding performance in teaching by two academic departments each year. The award recognizes the central role that undergraduate, graduate, and professional teaching plays in the university's mission, and further acknowledges that collective efforts are essential if individual efforts are to thrive. Excellent performance by many teachers ultimately determines the quality of a student's education.

To be a finalist for this award is indeed an honor; to win it shows the highest commitment to teaching and learning. The 1996 award recipients are the Department of Dance and the Department of Veterinary Clinical Sciences.

A Message From President Gee

Most of us measure our lives in year-long cycles, beginning in January and ending in December. But those of us in education observe a different calendar—one in which the year-end celebration is a graduation, and the days are counted in quarters or semesters.

For college students, the cycle begins that first autumn when they arrive on campus and advances through classes and exams, vacations and summer jobs, until commencement day finally arrives. And that day comes once each quarter when students from Ohio State graduate to the cheers of proud relatives and friends.

Now, these newly minted alumni will look back briefly and move on, shifting into the day-to-day rhythms of hoped-for employment. They will leave behind late nights filled with cold pizza and hot debate. No more 7:30 in the morning classes, but instead a 7:30 commute to the office. No more papers due for class, but reports due for work. They will trade their backpacks for briefcases, their ball caps for business suits.

There is no doubt that they have been changed by their college experience. Those years spent at a major research university represent not only a growth in knowledge, but a growth in wisdom and common sense—a maturing process that prepares a student for life in the “real world.” And that world does not stand still.

We need only look at the capitals of the world and the corporations of America to realize that powerful forces have been at work. During the time it has taken this most recent crop of graduates to complete their educations, the Soviet Union has come apart, Germany has come together, ethnic warfare has erupted, trade barriers have fallen, and once-mighty businesses have been brought to their knees by economic forces.

Today’s graduates are being launched into a world made smaller by the media and larger by the scope of our global dilemmas: the environment, ethics, illiteracy, racism, sexism, revolution, protest, famine, and poverty.

The world is crying for the compassion and creativity of our graduates. And we need their considerable energy and ingenuity to resolve conflicts, regain civility, and restore our spirits.

That is why, for all of us, graduation is a time that renews our hope in the future. As I preside over Ohio State’s commencement, I am impressed by the intelligence, dedication, and vigor of our new college graduates, young and not so young. And I feel an old, familiar feeling: optimism. Optimism about the actions our industries are taking to regain a competitive edge. Optimism about the adjustments education is making in response to a changing society. And, most of all, optimism about and faith in this new generation that is about to take its place in our society.

Today, as many of them leave school behind, their memories are bittersweet. One of Ohio State’s engineering graduates sent me a letter that, I believe, captures the great joy we share in this special rite of passage and the strength of the educational process. She wrote, “There will be at least one chemical engineer with a tear in her eye as the national anthem is played, a lump in her throat as her college is introduced, a smile on her face as she gets her diploma, and a cry of joy as her father hugs her and says, ‘I am so proud of you!’”

It is a pride in which we can all share. I thank this graduate, and thousands like her, for all they will bring to our society. They are very bright. They work very hard. They have learned to live without security, but they continue to seek it. They are ready not only to cope with change, but to create change. And they have turned away from “me-ism” and are again seeking ways to help their fellow human beings.

I am confident that when this generation assumes leadership, America will be in very good hands.

Congratulations and Welcome to the Alumni Association

Congratulations on receiving your degree. You may not notice the difference, but today, along with hundreds of your colleagues, you have joined the ranks of Ohio State alumni. For you, one era has passed, and another is about to begin.

You are a member of the Buckeye family and partner in the enterprise, carrying the reputation of Ohio State through your activities and accomplishments. You exemplify the fruits of a good education: a critical mind, a discerning spirit, higher values, a sense of commitment, and the privilege of service.

You can assist the university in many ways. You can recruit new and highly qualified students. You can represent Ohio State well through personal and occupational achievements. You can participate financially through the Development Fund. And you can work in an advisory capacity with the university to improve itself and its programs to better prepare today's students for tomorrow's citizenship.

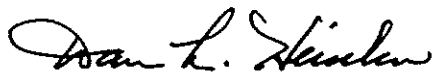

We extend to you a year's complimentary membership in the Alumni Association. Included is a year's subscription to the Ohio State Alumni Magazine, which will keep you informed of the university's continuing pursuit of excellence and help you keep in touch with your friends and classmates.

To you, your family, friends, and those others who helped you arrive here today go our best wishes. You are joining a great family of Ohio State alumni working together to make a difference around the world.

The Academic Costume

The colorful ceremonies of The Ohio State University Commencements derive from practices originating in the Middle Ages. When European universities were taking form in the 12th and 13th centuries, the scholars were usually clerics, and consequently they adopted costumes similar to those of their monastic orders. Cold halls and drafty buildings called for caps and floor-length capes with attached hoods, and the sobering influence of the church probably influenced the staid character of the caps and gowns.

As the control of the universities gradually passed from the church, some aspects of the costumes took on brighter hues. Old prints and engravings, however, reveal a strong similarity between the regalia worn in early universities and that of the present day.

In the light of our nation's English heritage, academic costume has been in use in the United States since colonial times. To establish a standard of uniformity in regard to the practice, an intercollegiate commission was formed to prepare a code for caps, gowns, and hoods that has since been adopted by all academic institutions.

Originally round, the shape of the cap is now the familiar mortarboard square—a shape which, according to ballad folklore, resembles a scholar's book. Legend also has it that the privilege of wearing a cap was the initial right of a freed Roman slave; the academic cap, therefore, has become a sign of the freedom of scholarship. The flowing gown has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship, for it covers any dress that might indicate rank or social status. The hood, reserved at The Ohio State University for those receiving doctoral degrees, not only indicates the type of degree, but also is lined with the official colors of the university.

The Gown

Bachelor. Black, full cut with long pointed sleeves.

Master. Black, long or short sleeves with a re-shaped panel extended for each sleeve.

Doctor. Black with velvet panels on front of gown and three velvet bars on each sleeve. Color of the velvet may be black or distinctive of the field of study.

The Hood

Bachelor. Three feet long with a two-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Master. Three and one-half feet long with a three-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Doctor. Four feet in length with a five-inch-wide velvet edging and panel at the sides.

* Not usually worn by candidates for a degree.

The lining of all hoods, which is folded out, bears the official colors of the institution granting the degree. The color of the velvet indicates the field of study:

Dentistry	Lilac
Law	Purple
Medicine	Green
Musical Arts	Pink
Optometry	Sea-foam Green
Pharmacy	Olive Green
