Alma Mater—Carmen Ohio

Graduates and guests led by
John Robin Rice
Assistant Professor
School of Music

Oh! come let's sing Ohio's praise,
And songs to Alma Mater raise;
While our hearts rebounding thrill,
With joy which death alone can still.
Summer's heat or Winter's cold,
The seasons pass, the years will roll;
Time and change will surely show
How firm thy friendship—Ohio.

Commencement Address

Árpád Göncz Doctor of Humane Letters

Árpád Göncz has been president of the Republic of Hungary since 1990. His election by the Hungarian Parliament was hailed as the country's final break with four decades of communism.

Born in 1922, Göncz entered the University of Budapest in 1938 and earned his law degree in 1944. During World War II, he was a member of the Hungarian Underground and was wounded by the Nazi military police in 1944. He was a member of the Independent Smallholders Party, a leftist peasant opposition organization.

Following the war, Göncz worked in Budapest as a lawyer and at various skilled and unskilled factory jobs. From 1951 to 1956, he worked in soil reclamation while studying agricultural engineering at Godollo University.

His political activism and his participation in the 1956 Hungarian uprising against Soviet control led to a sentence of life imprisonment in 1957. While in prison, he taught himself English in hopes of making a living as a translator when free. He was released under a general amnesty in 1963 and began to translate American and British literary works into Hungarian, beginning with The Forsyte Saga.

He has translated some 100 novels, essays, and short stories, including works by James Baldwin, E.L. Doctorow, Ernest Hemingway, Susan Sontag, Edith Wharton, and others. He has won awards for his translations of George Orwell and William Faulkner.

His own works include Sarusok (Men of God), a novel about railway workers; Talalkozások (Encounters), a collection of short stories; several plays; and numerous essays and reviews in Hungarian magazines.

Göncz has been a member of the Hungarian Writers' Association and president of the Writers' Union from 1986 to 1990. He was executive president of the Hungarian section of the International League for Human Rights in 1988.

In 1988 he helped found the Alliance of Free Democrats, which was defeated in Hungary's first free elections in 1990. Despite the defeat of his party, Göncz was elected to the office of president—the head of state—by the Hungarian parliament, a tribute to his personal standing in his country.

Ohio State is honored to welcome this distinguished and courageous statesman as today's commencement speaker and is proud to recognize his historic achievements.

Recipients of Honors

Helmut Moritz Doctor of Science

One of the most respected scientists of our time, Helmut Moritz has made major contributions to the field of theoretical geodesy—the study of the dynamics that shape our planet.

Born in Graz, Austria, Moritz presently is professor and head of the Department of Physical Geodesy in that city's Technical University. He received his first degree in geodesy at the Technical University at Graz in 1956 and his Doctor of Technical Sciences in 1959.

He came to Ohio State as a research associate in the Department of Geodetic Science and Surveying from 1962 to 1964. He continued his association with Ohio State throughout the '60s as a nonresident research associate and consultant and the '70s as a visiting adjunct professor.

In 1967, he coauthored with Professor W. A. Heiskanen the classic textbook Physical Geodesy, which has been hailed throughout the scientific community for its clarity and pioneering research on gravimetrics. He is the author of four other widely acclaimed books, including Earth Rotation: Theory and Observation, written with Ohio State Professor Ivan Mueller, as well as some 190 papers on geodesy.

Moritz's mathematical sophistication led him to develop the theory of least squares collocation (LSC), which has become the standard numerical technique in determining the earth's gravity field both on a global and local scale.

A master of eight languages, as well as the classics, Moritz has played a significant role in international professional organizations. He served as the president of the International Association of Geodesy from 1979 to 1983 and is president of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics Bureau for the period 1991 to 1995. Moritz is a fellow of the American Geophysical Union, a corresponding member of the Scientific Society of Braunschweig, and a fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society. He has been elected to membership in nine academies of science throughout Europe.

His honors include the Kaarina and W. A. Heiskanen Award from Ohio State, the Carl Friedrich Gauss Medal of the Scientific Society of Braunschweig, the Vaisala Medal of the Finnish Geodetic Institute, nomination for corresponding astronomer by the Royal Observatory of Belgium, the Alexander von Humboldt Medal of the German Democratic Republic Academy of Sciences, and the Great Golden Declaration of Steirmark State in Austria.

Ohio State is proud to recognize this distinguished scientist whose outstanding scholarship and career has long been interwoven with this university.

Harold A. Sorgenti Doctor of Humane Letters

Harold A. Sorgenti combines the pragmatism of a successful corporate executive and the idealism of an imaginative community leader.

As president of the ARCO Chemical Company, he recognized the trend toward globalized industries and oversaw ARCO's expansion into a worldwide market. Today ARCO has 50 percent of its $3 billion yearly sales overseas and is one of the fastest growing and most profitable companies in the chemical industry.

Sorgenti received his chemical engineering degree from City College of New York in 1956 and his master of science degree from Ohio State in 1959. He began his career with the Atlantic Refining Company in 1959 as an engineer, advancing through a number of responsible positions to the vice presidency of research and engineering. He returned to Philadelphia in 1976 as vice president of chemical development and, in 1979, was named ARCO's president.

Sorgenti pioneered industrial cooperation with the Environmental Protection Agency in setting self-imposed environmental goals and standards. He holds 11 U.S. patents and numerous overseas patents.

Sorgenti continues to be a leader in the arts, in education, and in promoting the welfare of the disadvantaged. He has served as chair of the Greater Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce and played a major role in the organization of the Greater Philadelphia First Corporation, an organization of the CEOs of the area's 30 largest corporations working to solve community problems.

In cooperation with Philadelphia's Protestant and Jewish business leaders, he founded BLOCS, Business Leadership Organized for Catholic Schools, which raised more than $48 million for capital projects, curriculum enhancement, and tutoring assistance.

He is currently chair of the Caring Foundation, which raises funds to provide health insurance for more than 60,000 disadvantaged children in the Philadelphia area.

Sorgenti has been actively involved with Philadelphia's cultural institutions for many years, and is a director and chair of the Philadelphia Academy of Fine Arts, as well as a director of the Philadelphia Orchestra Association.

Sorgenti retired from ARCO in 1991 to form The Freedom Group Partnership, which acquires and develops companies in the areas of reformulated fuels, specialty chemicals, and specialty polymers.

Ohio State is pleased to recognize the far-reaching achievements of this business and community leader.

This printed program, therefore, should not be used to determine a student's academic or degree status. The University's official registry for conferral of degrees is the student's permanent academic record, kept by the Office of The University Registrar, 202 Lincoln Tower, 1800 Cannon Drive, Columbus, Ohio 43210.

The Academic Costume

The colorful ceremonies of The Ohio State University Commencements derive from practices originating in the Middle Ages. When European universities were taking form in the 12th and 13th centuries, the scholars were usually clerics, and consequently they adopted costumes similar to those of their monastic orders. Cold halls and drafty buildings called for caps and floor-length capes with attached hoods, and the sobering influence of the church probably influenced the staid character of the caps and gowns.

As the control of the universities gradually passed from the church, some aspects of the costumes took on brighter hues. Old prints and engravings, however, reveal a strong similarity between the regalia worn in early universities and that of the present day.

In the light of our nation's English heritage, academic costume has been in use in the United States since colonial times. To establish a standard of uniformity in regard to the practice, an intercollegiate commission was formed to prepare a code for caps, gowns, and hoods that has since been adopted by all academic institutions.

Originally round, the shape of the cap is now the familiar mortarboard square—a shape which, according to ballad folklore, resembles a scholar's book. Legend also has it that the privilege of wearing a cap was the initial right of a freed Roman slave; the academic cap, therefore, has become a sign of the freedom of scholarship. The flowing gown has become symbolic of the democracy of scholarship for it covers any dress that might indicate rank or social status. The hood, reserved at The Ohio State University for those receiving doctoral degrees, not only indicates the type of degree, but also is lined with the official colors of the University.

The Gown

Bachelor. Black, full cut with long pointed sleeves.

Master. Black, long or short sleeves with a re-shaped panel extended for each sleeve.

Doctor. Black with velvet panels on front of gown and three velvet bars on each sleeve. Color of the velvet may be black or distinctive of the field of study.

The Hood

Bachelor. Three feet long with a two-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Master. Three and one-half feet long with a three-inch-wide velvet edging.*

Doctor. Four feet in length with a five-inch-wide velvet edging and panel at the sides.

* Not usually worn by candidates for a degree.

The lining of all hoods, which is folded out, bears the official colors of the institution granting the degree. The color of the velvet indicates the field of study:

Medicine	Green
Musical Arts	Pink
Optometry	Sea-foam Green
